Social Justice + Climate Action = Climate Justice

We Call On Zontians to Lead the Way for Climate Justice

Lead by example

Be positive and forward-thinking

Use your power to change the world - Being Bold

Seek power with others instead of power over others.

The political & social constructs that oppress women are one and the same with those that are wreaking havoc on the global environment... Women are well equipped to transcend ego and competition in order to create a politics of 'heart-centered, not just head-centered, leadership.' –from Kirkus Review

Start Here to Lead the Way in Your Club...

TALK about the issues

LISTEN to Experts who are making a difference

ASK questions

THINK about what you learned

TALK, ASK, and LISTEN as a group

CHOOSE a focus - clean air, clean water, food waste, plastic waste

DO SOMETHING - All climate issues affect women and girls by exacerbating gender-based violence, human trafficking, child marriage, health, and livelihood in the U.S. and internationally.

What is Climate Justice?

Social Justice - the view that everyone deserves equal economic, political, and social rights and opportunities. (United Nations definition). Examples: ending gender-based violence, child marriage, and human trafficking

Climate Action - gathering the facts and then promoting advocacy, education, support, preparedness, collaboration, gender equality, innovation, and service projects to protect your environment.

Climate Justice - seeking resolution of unequal social and climate impacts on the most vulnerable. Examples: Ending poverty, advocating to improve disaster preparedness efforts in the community, and advocating for gender-balanced decision-making when governments create policy.
